What is a fixed indexed annuity?

A fixed indexed annuity is a contract you buy from an insurance company that provides the opportunity to earn interest based on the changes in an index, such as the S&P 500® Composite Price Index. Regardless of index performance, indexed annuity contract values will not be impacted by negative index returns.

This material is not a recommendation to buy or sell a financial product or to adopt an investment strategy. Investors should discuss their specific situation with their financial professional.

Select from multiple index opportunities

New Heights® Select offers six index options, giving you choices to help grow your retirement savings.¹ Your New Heights Select annuity may increase in value based on the positive performance of an underlying index and will not lose value due to losses in the index.

Goldman Sachs New Horizons Index

A broadly diversified index that provides opportunities for growth through a Global Core Strategy and an Alternative Strategy. The index features five asset classes and two alternatives that provide the flexibility to adapt to a variety of market environments and help contribute to the index's returns.

MSCI EAFE Index

An international equities index of large companies across Europe, Australasia and the Far East, excluding the U.S. and Canada. MSCI EAFE is the oldest international stock index and includes a selection of stocks from 21 developed markets.²

SG Macro Compass Index

A global, multi-asset index that uses expected changes in economic growth and inflation to forecast the potential economic environment and makes strategic allocations based on the forecast. The SG Macro Compass Index reallocates quarterly and adjusts its bond allocation monthly. It seeks to provide consistent growth and diversification in changing markets.

NYSE® Zebra Edge® II Index

A rules-based index applying the research of Roger Ibbotson and his team at Zebra Capital to select more rational stocks from the 500 largest U.S. publicly traded companies, then allocate between the selected stocks, U.S. Treasuries and a cash account to help reduce risk and provide consistent long-term returns.

J.P. Morgan Mozaic IISM Index

A broadly diversified index drawing from a global mix of asset classes including equities, fixed income and commodities. This dynamic index reallocates monthly, selecting asset classes with the greatest momentum and balancing allocations to provide a more stable return.

S&P 500® Composite Price Index

An American stock market index based on market capitalizations of 500 large companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) or NASDAQ. The S&P 500® is widely considered to be the leading indicator of the U.S. stock market and economy as a whole.

At the end of each strategy term, you have the flexibility to select new indices and strategies in order to take advantage of changing market environments.³

Indices are unmanaged and cannot be invested into directly. New Heights Select performance will not match the performance of the index.

¹ Fixed indexed annuities are not an investment and do not participate in the stock market. New Heights Select does not participate or invest directly in any index. Indices are unmanaged.

² International investing could involve risks such as currency, economic, geographical, political and differences in accounting standards.

³ Index allocations, declared rate allocations, declared rates and strategy spreads are guaranteed for the first strategy term and subject to change at the beginning of each new strategy term.

Provide growth potential through the strategy options

Each index currently has two strategy options, which provide earnings based on the growth of the underlying index while eliminating the risk of losing principal due to negative index performance.

Each strategy option has several components to help provide growth opportunities. All strategy options have an index allocation that contributes to earnings based on the performance of the index. Strategy options that include a declared rate allocation greater than 0% will provide earnings at a fixed rate of interest (the declared rate). The strategy spread is deducted from potential earnings at the end of the strategy term, but will never cause earnings to be less than zero.⁴

Each index currently offers two strategy options to provide growth opportunities in a variety of market environments

Strategy Option	Growth Opportunity
Strategy A	May provide higher returns when the index grows substantially during a strategy term due to higher index allocations
Strategy B	May provide higher returns when the index experiences slower growth during a strategy term due to a lower or no strategy spread

Key Terms

- Daily Accumulation Value (DAV): The DAV monitors the combined daily fluctuations of the elected strategy options and is the greater of (1) the contract value, plus any strategy earnings that have not yet been credited to the contract, or (2) the return of purchase payment guarantee amount
- Declared rate: Annual fixed interest rate
- Declared rate allocation: A percentage that is multiplied by the declared rate
- Index allocation: A percentage that is multiplied by the performance of the index
- Strategy spread: An annual percentage rate that is deducted when calculating earnings, but will never cause earnings to be less than zero for any strategy term
- Strategy term: A specific number of years used to measure strategy earnings. The initial strategy term is set at contract issue

⁴ For more information on how earnings are calculated and credited, please see the Certificate of Disclosure.

Track potential earnings throughout the strategy term

The Daily Accumulation Value (DAV) tracks changes to your potential earnings every day, and earnings will be credited at the end of each strategy term. Earnings to-date are credited on withdrawals and if a death benefit is payable, meaning you won't lose earnings when you need to access your money.⁵ Your contract value is guaranteed and will not decrease due to negative market performance. The hypothetical graph below shows how DAV is tracked during a strategy term.⁶ Past performance is not an indication of future results as results may vary.

Hypothetical New Heights Select DAV Performance

Optional one-time lock-in

If you're satisfied with the amount of index growth before the end of a strategy term, you have the option to lock in your index value once every strategy term. This innovative feature ensures you won't lose potential earnings based on negative index performance.

Ask your financial professional about Nationwide New Heights Select fixed indexed annuities.

⁵ Full earnings to-date are credited on the free withdrawal amount; pro-rata earnings are credited on withdrawals above the amount.
